

Using Movies to Talk to Teens

Dear Parents,

This course is designed to help you launch important conversations with your children through the medium of film. Over the next six weeks, we will introduce you to six films and offer suggestions for how to use those films to discuss important topics such as:

- Teen pregnancy
- Relationship violence
- Commitment
- Internet safety
- Friendship

We have selected films that represent a variety of genres and target audiences, knowing that maturity and readiness to discuss certain topics can vary widely among teens. While we offer guidance about the content in each film, we expect you will use your own discretion about when to view and discuss each film with your children.

Happy parenting,
